Introduction to Surrey Public Health

Public Health at Surrey County Council is responsible for commissioning best practice/evidence based treatment that improves the outcomes for individuals who want support to recover from their dependency.

The treatment system offers a person centred recovery approach which ensures appropriate support & information is available to drug and or alcohol users and their families.

Information Sharing

Surrey Multi-Agency Information Sharing Protocol

The Surrey Multi-Agency Information Sharing Protocol \(MAISP\) is an agreed set of principles about sharing personal or confidential information. It enables each organisation signed up to the protocol to understand the circumstances in which it should share information and what its responsibilities are. The Surrey MAISP has been developed in partnership by representatives from Surrey's county and district councils, the health service and Surrey Police.

The Surrey MAISP does not replace context-specific protocols, but provides a framework within which they can all operate. It provides both a common understanding for all the agencies in Surrey to work to and is recommended for use as a template for situations where there is no context-specific protocol. Organisations that sign up to an approved context-specific information sharing protocol automatically become signatories of the Surrey MAISP, the over-arching protocol and are bound by its principles.

See the guidance on context specific information sharing protocols \(PDF\) and the process for compliance with the Surrey MAISP.

Surrey's Substance Misuse Treatment System

Glossary

Open access services:

Advice, information and support to drug & alcohol users, their families and carers. Open access services allow people to drop-in (no appointment required) or telephone directly for an appointment.

Self help & mutual aid:

Self help/mutual aid groups offer individuals an opportunity to receive/provide support via their peers. Groups are available across the county and are delivered through established SMART Recovery and Fellowship network.

Carer/Significant other groups:

These groups provide support to partners, families and carers of drug/alcohol users and represent the carers/significant others voice in planning and delivering drug/alcohol services.

Structured treatment services:

Ongoing support for drug and alcohol users who want support to change their high risk or dependent use; interventions may be clinical, therapeutic and/or practical. Support is provided through a care plan which indicates the goals and aspirations of the service user.

Residential and inpatient treatment services:

High level support delivered in a residential setting. This may be delivered through a rehabilitation or detoxification programme, or a combination of both.

Aftercare services:

Follow-on/integrated support for drug/alcohol users who have been through structured treatment, released from custody or post-rehabilitation.

Recording Information

Personal information about service users is recorded and stored by drug services in line with the Data Protection Act 1998. Information may be shared, with the permission of the service user, with other appropriate treatment services. The service receiving the information is bound by confidentiality and will only use the information for treatment purposes. With permission, data will be sent in aggregated format to the National Drug Treatment Monitoring System (NDTMS) and to Surrey's Treatment Information System (HALO). HALO is a client focused application providing managed sharing of client data from a central data store.

Confidentiality

Confidentiality enables an open relationship between the service user and drug service professional. However, information sharing is also central to providing the service user with a seamless treatment journey which meets their needs and reduces the risk of harm to themselves and others. Information may need to be shared between agencies when service users are in contact with multiple agencies and when care is transferred from one agency to another.

Service users must receive an explanation of confidentiality at the outset of a treatment episode. As part of the assessment process the drug worker and service user will establish which personal information should be shared with other agencies and for what purpose. This may be revisited and revised as part of the care planning process.

No drug treatment service can offer absolute confidentiality. Drug services will have clear policies on how assessment processes and care plans should be shared. They will also have policies on confidentiality, informed consent and information sharing. The limits of confidentiality must be explained early so that relationships between drug workers and service users are based on an appropriate understanding of these issues. A service user's confidentiality may be broken in exceptional circumstances. Examples of such circumstances include:

- To protect children, in which case, Surrey's child protection procedures will be followed
- As a duty to the Courts
- To minimise the risk of serious harm to the service user or another person

Service users should be explicitly advised of their rights with regard to confidentiality including their right to access the information that is held on them.

Assessment

All service users with drug and or alcohol problems referred to a treatment service in Surrey will be offered an initial assessment. The initial assessment is part of the record of care and is stored in line with the Data Protection Act 1998 and service protocols. The assessment will include:

- A brief assessment of the drug/alcohol problems
- An indication of what, if any, specialist drug and or alcohol treatments and interventions the service user is likely to benefit from
- A risk assessment
- An interim care plan including onward referral to services
- A set of data which satisfies the reporting requirements of NDTMS and HALO

Assessment processes will always include a risk assessment. Assessing risk provides information that will inform the care planning process. Substance misuse risks that may need to be prioritised in assessment and care planning include risks around overdose, safer injecting and blood-borne virus transmission. Wider priorities identified may include risk related to vulnerability, self harm or harm to others.

A comprehensive assessment will be conducted at the outset of a treatment episode. Comprehensive assessment underlies planning and delivery of structured treatment and other interventions. It may be undertaken by the drug worker and service user or in conjunction with other professionals or services.

The result of the assessment process will be the development of a comprehensive care plan, describing the planned agreed actions aimed at addressing the needs and goals identified as part of the initial and ongoing comprehensive assessment.

Care Planning

All service users will contribute and own a written care plan which is developed and reviewed on a regular basis with them. Care plans should be user-focused and made available in written format to users by service providers. Care planning is good practice and a requirement of all drug and or alcohol treatment.

The care plan must:

- Set the goals of treatment and milestones to be achieved (taking into account the views and treatment goals of service users and developed with their active participation)
- Set goals in some, or all, of the four key outcome domains (physical health, psychological health, social and legal) to ensure that the focus is on a range of the service user needs
- Indicate the interventions planned and which service and professional is responsible for carrying out those interventions
- Make explicit reference to risk management and identify the risk management plan and contingency plans where needed
- Identify the engagement plan to be adopted with service users who are difficult to engage in the drug and/or alcohol treatment system
- Identify the review date

The care plan will also include:

- Service user name
- Key worker name
- Identified goals in relation to specific interventions planned
- Roles and responsibilities of key worker and service user
- Names and roles of other individuals/agencies identified in delivering care (eg. including the name of GP and pharmacy)
- Review date for care plan and risk assessment
- Service user signature
- Key worker signature

Harm Reduction

We recognise that harm reduction is integral to Surrey's drug and/or alcohol treatment and criminal justice systems, and promotes a harm reduction approach to all services.

Effective treatment must also respond to the whole of an individual's health needs, including primary and secondary healthcare, alcohol use, prescription drug misuse, sexual health and dental health. It should also take account of the service user's housing, social and legal situations in offering a holistic package of support.

All substance misuse commissioned services, as part of their core business, employ evidence-based harm reduction initiatives to reduce drug and/or alcohol related harm to the individuals using their services.

Aftercare/Recovery

Aftercare/Recovery is a holistic package of support put into place during, or at the end of an individual's treatment journey.

The primary aim of aftercare is to ensure that treatment gains are sustained by supporting effective recovery. This can present in the form of training, education, employment, introducing the individual to self help groups such as 12-Step Fellowship or SMART Recovery. It is also essential to help individuals re-establish old hobbies/interests to promote social interaction, build confidence and create healthy relationships.

Advocacy

The aim of Generic Advocacy Services is to provide professional advocacy for people of working age and above (18+) with past or present drugs and or alcohol misuse. The expectation is that you will be known to, or engaged with a local treatment service and registered with a Surrey GP.

Referrals can be made by statutory and voluntary groups, although since the advocacy service can only work with individuals that agree - for this reason self referrals are preferable.

Support is given to service users to enable and empower them to have their voice heard, promote self-confidence, and develop skills so they can advocate on their own behalf. The work is issue-specific and generally short term- it is not a replacement for existing services

Advocacy can assist with a wide range of issues such as treatment/medication issues, support at meetings, probation, benefits, housing, debt, complaints, liaising with other organisations or professionals etc. Advocacy also provides links to specialist help such as solicitors, debt advice and support, Citizens Advice, etc and may assist clients to access these services where appropriate.
